

2025 Development Charges

By-law C.P.-1551-227

What are Development Charges? (DCs)

A fee charged by the City to recover capital costs associated with residential and non-residential growth. Development charges do not pay for operating costs or infrastructure renewal.

Who pays?

The owner of the land that develops or redevelops the land, or any building or structure on the land.

Growth costs are recovered to:

build new infrastructure supporting growth

pay down existing debt for past growth works

limit taxpayers paying for costs that serve growth

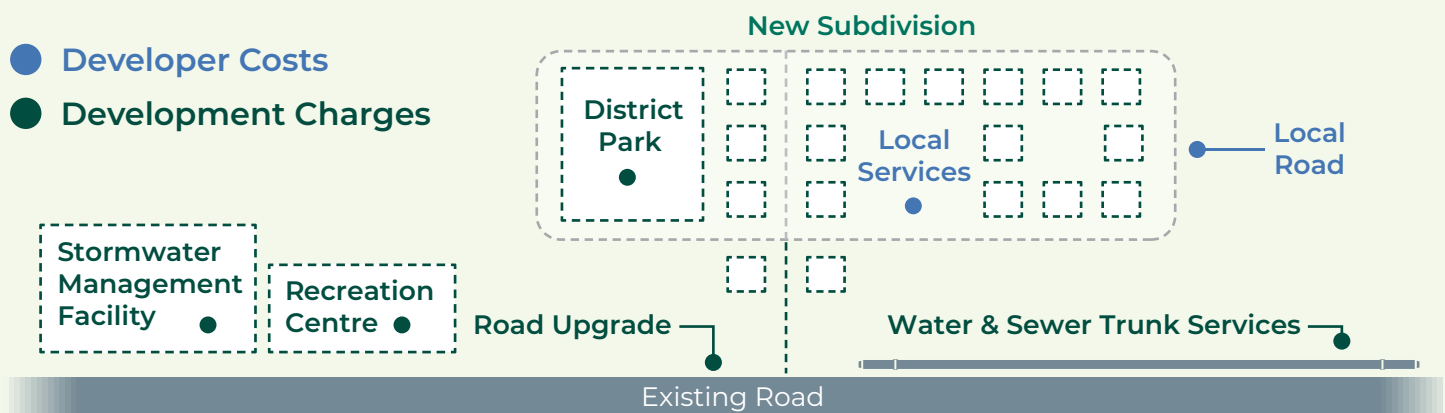

Development charges assist in financing capital projects required to meet the increased need for services resulting from growth and development. They may only be used for the purpose for which they are collected.

When are DCs calculated and paid?

For development types subject to Site Plan or Zoning By-law Amendments, the DC is calculated the day a complete application is received and frozen from the date of application approval for a period of up to eighteen months. If the building permit has not been issued within the frozen period, the DC is recalculated and collected on the date the first building permit is issued. There are also deferred payment schedules for rental housing and certain institutional developments. For all other development types, the DC is calculated and collected on the date the first building permit is issued. For more information please contact us.

Please note: Brochure content is for information purposes and should not be considered to be an interpretation of the Development Charges Act, London's current DC By-law or a determination of charges, if any, that may apply to any specific application to a proposed development.

Annual Indexing of Development Charge Rates

- Development Charges will be increasing by 3.3% for 2025
- The City of London Development Charge By-law was approved by Municipal Council on October 20, 2020 and came into effect on January 1, 2021.
- DC rates are subject to annual indexing using the Statistics Canada Quarterly, Non-Residential Building Construction Price Index, as prescribed by the Development Charges Act.
- The City of London does not have the authority to set its own index rate. The Development Charges Act and Regulation prescribes the index to be used by municipalities.

Indexing development charges helps to mitigate the impact of inflationary increases on future growth-related capital costs as indexing is intended to reflect changes to construction cost increases. This will help ensure that originally planned infrastructure timing is maintained and new development can proceed without delay.
